Set up camp, eat lunch, and drive to Camp Kennedy for an optional shore dive.
Rest of the day? – relax or shop in La Bufadora and enjoy the fabulous sunset!!
- Saturday – November 27 9am – Load up the dive Panga and head out for 2-dives.
- Sunday – November 28 Same dives as Saturday, break camp after diving, and then head north.

COST

Car – La Bufadora is about 100 miles south of the border.

Gasoline: Plan on 300 miles with side trips.

Insurance: Depends on the value of your car – from $30-$60 for the weekend depending on the value of your car. One place to check for insurance is <http://www.bajabound.com/>

Lodging –No reservations required to camp at La Bufadora $10/night/two people/car

This is the most economical option and we have fun telling Diving Tall Tales around the campfire.

NOTE: Two large tents will be provided – men’s and women’s. You only need a sleeping bag!

Food – Group meals are being planned for dinner and breakfast both days.

Or bring your own, cook at the camp or eat in La Bufadora (2-min. walk)

Most restaurants close after dark in La Bufadora when the tourist busses leave.

Local restaurants cost $5 and up, tourist restaurants cost $9 and up.

Boat Fees –$35.00 for a two dive trip +$5 tip. We will be using the boats Saturday and Sunday

Air Fills – Bring 2-3 full tanks, Air fills to 3500psi are $5.00 per fill at Dale’s Dive Shop.

For more information check out <http://www.labufadoradive.com/>.

If your car is worth $15,000.00 and you get 25MPH, your transportation costs will be ~$100/2 people.

Your camping cost will be $10 each assuming 2-people/car. Cooking stoves will be provided.

If you dive all five dives, and bring two tanks, your diving cost will be $95.00 inclusive.
